

ISPI e-learning Forum

New Directions in e-learning Mega, Macro, Micro

Chair – Rodger Carroll | President, ISPI | Wednesday, 11 July

6.30 – 6.45pm VET e-learning Strategies

The Vocational Education and Training (VET) sector in Australia is active in developing and implementing e-learning strategies. A current direction is in increasing the social context in which e-learning takes place, especially where it is the predominant learning mode. This presentation will highlight some of the technologies and learning support strategies being developed in the TAFE sector to provide social interaction, peer support and engagement for online learners.

The Speaker

Ken Gooding is the Coordinator of Online Learning Development at Chisholm Institute. His role is supporting teachers to develop the skills for flexible online delivery for on campus and off campus students.

6.45 – 7.00pm Sustainability of e-Learning

Focussing on the perception and implementation of e-learning, this presentation covers learning strategy, design, implementation, and sustainability in the context of organisational performance and transformation. It will include learning intervention, use of technology, e-learning and Classroom, on the job support, and business drivers.

The Speaker

Graham Whelan is CEO of Online Learning Australia and founding committee member of the Victorian e-Learning Industry Association.

7.15 – 7.30pm Case Study
